

Support

Our support is personal and efficient, if you have a problem, then we have a problem and we don't like problems so you will find quick responses and serious solutions are just standard practise when you are a "That Web Place" customer.

We understand that sometimes things go wrong or perhaps you are just unsure how to set up a new email address and need a little help. That Web Place has always had a strong commitment to customer service, in fact we founded our business on it.

So it stands to reason that if we relaxed on service now, our founding customers who have been with us for over 7 years would very quickly go looking for another alternative.

Support is available by phone and e-mail. If you require a site visit, we can arrange that as well. The important thing is that you are happy because we know you are going to talk about us to your friends.
